The Canyon Sunday News

Volume 6 No. 39 Canyon, Texas Sunday, May 30, 1976 14 Pages 15 Cents

Several Canyon Junior High School students left their books behind Friday as they burst through the doors of the school as the 2:30 p.m. bell rang, drawing a close to the school year. A full summer of vacations, recreation programs and reading faces the out-of-school students.

Bond issue will handle 2 years growth-Jacobs

New school facilities which will be provided as a result of Tuesday's bond issue election should accommodate the projected growth of the Canyon school district for about two years, Supt. Jerry Jacobs said last week.

Jacobs said it is likely the Canyon School Board will have to begin reassessing the school facilities needs again during the 1977-78 school year, only shortly after a new elementary school is constructed in the north part of the district.

District voters approved Tuesday the issuance of $2.9 million in bonds to finance construction of a 600-student elementary school at Sundown and Western in the north part of the district and remodelling and additions at Canyon High School.

While Jacobs won't say the facilities approved Tuesday are only stop-gap measures to accommodate growth in the district, he will say it is likely other construction will be needed in the not-too-distant future.

"I think this gets us out of the woods for the most part for two years," he said. "I'd say it at least gives us some more months to observe growth trends and give some indication of direction of growth."

That growth will come seems inevitable.

Jacobs points out that a number (more than 20 according to Admin. Asst. W.V. McAlpin) of new homes are now under construction in just one subdivision in the north part of the district. Eighty-seven home building permits have been issued since January in Canyon.

"If growth continues we're gonna eventually have to come back for a junior high or high school or both," he said. "And it's possible the junior high may be the first priority with more room at the high school.

"At least we'll go through next year before we run into a crunch situation."

Jacobs believes facilities will be adequate for all campuses through next year and the year following.

But, he projects that another study for new school facilities will be underway during 1977-78 to come up with growth projections and to pin-point the need for facilities.

Without growth, the new elementary school to be constructed in the north part of the district could be virtually filled when it opens in September 1977. Rex Reeves Elementary School, constructed for about 1,000 students, will have more than 1,200 as school opens next fall. Gene Howe Elementary School, built to accommodate about 450 students, is projected to have nearly 600 students in the fall.

School board members, who attempted to pass a double-barrell bond issue in December and again in February before compromising to pass last Tuesday's issue, have said since last year there is a need for at least two new schools.

Citizens study groups which met last fall recommended the district construct a new high school and elementary school.

Voters turned down a $6 million proposal in December calling for construction of new elementary and high schools, and also turned down a $5.5 million proposal in February calling for new elementary and junior high schools.

New federal water act may cost city taxpayers $500,000

By LAURIE TELFAIR

The Safe Drinking Water Act, which goes into effect next year, may eventually cost Canyon taxpayers a half million or more but for the time being at least, city officials expect to have no trouble in complying with the legislation.

Canyon's water system already meets most of the requirements of the federal law, said Robert Rogers, water superintendent.

He expects the Environmental Protection Agency to grant the city variance for the high fluoride content, the only element that does not meet the standards.

The water here contains 3.1 milligrams per liter, well in excess of the 1.6 milligrams per liter that is permitted.

"The variance won't last forever though," said Rogers. "Eventually, in eight or ten years, the city will have to get the fluoride out."

Rogers said he got his last estimate four years ago on equipment to remove excess fluoride. The cost then was $500,000, he said.

The only other change the law will make here is to require more record keeping, he said, and to give the public notice of any variances or deficiencies in the water.

Rogers said that the State Health Board's requirements exceeded the standards set by the new law. Already, the city water supply is tested eleven times a month for bacteria and is checked for chemicals once a year.

The primary impact of the Safe Drinking Water Act will be on systems that use surface water for drinking, he said.

"We're going to be happy we're on well water when this act goes into effect," Rogers said.

The law, which will regulate all

Drilling due this week on test hole at lake

Drilling will begin this week on a test hole to determine the feasibility of providing deep underground water for the south end of dry Buffalo Lake.

Paul Ferguson, manager of the lake refuge, said one test hole will be drilled later this week near the south end of the lake to determine the availability of water from the Santa Rosa formation for use in the lake's dry diked-in south area.

Ferguson said he's not optimistic the test drilling will find enough water to significantly supply a limited amount of water for the area of the lake behind the southern dike.

If the test hole turns up no deep water, he said, a windmill will be placed at the site to supply the refuge's water needs.

Ferguson said the lake, deprived of water for several years, is virtually dry now.

He initially proposed using wells to supplement whatever natural rainfall or in-flow the lake might receive at the southern end last winter. He had requested funds from the Department of the Interior for the drilling.

If the test hole proves to supply water, he said, a channel or other system would be used to move the water into the south end of the lake.

Ferguson supervised the construction of a dike at the southern end several years ago to concentrate water supplies in that area for waterfowl protection and management.

Developer of land in north changes mind on de-annexation

The developer of a full section of land in the north part of the Canyon school district said Tuesday he has changed his mind and will ask that his property be de-annexed for annexation by the Amarillo district.

Richard Reeves, developer of Sleepy Hollow subdivision, said he is now willing to pay about $128,000 to the Canyon district for severance of his property.

The subdivision is south of Puckett Place West, which was recently de-annexed from the CISD and annexed by the AISD, and is west of Coulter Road.

Reeves announced the opening of the subdivision for development last winter.

He said he will petition to have the 640-acre tract removed from CISD as soon as he can find someone willing to live on the property and sign a petition for removal.

"There's nothing else to do but pay," he said. "It's the only thing we can do."

Reeves had said last summer and fall he would not go along with CISD demands that developers pay CISD for loss of potential tax revenue before the CISD board would approve de-annexation petitions.

Emmett Fuqua, developer of Puckett Place West, recently paid CISD about $60,000 for removal of a half-section of land from the district for annexation by AISD.

Fuqua recently announced plans to begin development of the subdivision.

Permits for 39 homes issued during May

Building permits for 39 new houses were issued this month as the construction boom in Canyon heads toward another record year.

Total dollar value for construction during May was $1,231,300, city code enforcement agent Jerry Lehnick said. Lehnick compiled the May figures several days before the month ended.

So far this year, 87 new homes have been started and total construction value is $3,570,550.

This is well ahead of last year's total at this time of $859,484. 1975 was a record year, with $6,618,004 in new construction and additions to existing buildings. That record, however, included the multimillion dollar Fine Arts building under construction now on the WTSU campus. There have not been any large projects

Memorial Day service set

A Memorial Day service will be held at Dreamland Cemetery Monday at 11 a.m.

The Rev. Baldwin Stribling, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, will conduct the rites. Color guard and flag ceremonies will be performed by Boy Scout Troop 132 under the leadership of Jeff Edmond. "Taps" will be performed by Bryan Young.

A Gold Star Mothers breakfast, open to the public, will be hosted by VFW Post 5681 at the Post House. Members will serve breakfast from 7-10 a.m.

VFW members will also decorate the graves with American flags.

The Canyon Chamber of Commerce is recommending that businesses observe the holiday and the majority of businesses will probably be closed, Chamber manager Roland Black said.

Federal, state and local government offices will be closed, as will the post office.

In contrast, registration for the first summer session will be held Monday at WTSU.

State grant will support research effort

Use of wind to pump irrigation water to be eyed in WT study

The use of one of nature's oldest energy sources coupled with one of the Panhandle's most historic machines to produce irrigation water without high fuel costs will be studied this summer here.

Three wind energy researchers at West Texas State University were awarded a $17,000 grant by the Texas Governor's Energy Advisory Council last week, according to State Sen. Max Sherman.

The end result of the researchers' efforts could be efficient windmills for pumping irrigation water to replace currently costly gas and electricity fired irrigation engines.

Drs. Vaughn Nelson, Earl Gilmore and Robert Barieau were awarded the only wind energy grant in the state through the governor's council. They are to present two reports to the council at summer's end.

"The main reason why West Texas State received this wind energy grant is that they are farther ahead than most places in the country in wind energy research," said Sherman, who is on the council. "This was one of the best contracts we awarded because it is so specific."

The general objective of the study is to determine the feasibility of using windpower to pump water for irrigation.

The team will simulate a complete wind system on the computer to project the cost-benefit ration for the High Plains of Texas. From the analysis a decision can be made whether windpower can be used to replace or supplement other energy sources.

"This is of primary importance to Texas agriculture since irrigation uses the largest percentage of energy consumed in the production of food and fiber," Nelson said.

"Our program consists of two parts," said Dr. Gilmore, an Amarillo College physics professor. "One is the problem of designing wind rotors or props of optimum efficiencies to do certain types of jobs. This part is being done on the computer by Dr. Barieau.

"The other is modeling a system which will determine the operating characteristics of all the important parameters associated with the operation of various pumping systems that are designed to be driven by wind rotors and associated components," he said.

The team's investigations will center around a 20-kilowatt wind unit model that will pump irrigation water by air-lift or positive displacement pumps.

"The air-lift pump was used extensively for water supplies between 1900 to the 1920s, but it is not used much any more," Dr. Barieau noted. "The only disadvantage to using one is that you have to have the air admitted under a considerable head of water."

Barieau has been working on modifications for a computer program for rotor design that will "optimize some of the variables, like the twist of the blades as a function of the radius of the blades and the power output by varying the tip speed ratio."

Sherman, who has been on the Governor's Energy Advisory Council since its creation in 1973, said the goal of the council is "to chart an intelligent and well-informed energy policy for the state."

The council received the biggest grant in the nation from the National Science Foundation in 1974 for energy research, which they devoted to determining the total energy resources in Texas.

"They were using Texas as the example to other states as to what should be done," Sherman said.

Part of the money distributed to Texas went to Nelson and Gilmore for a wind energy feasibility

Limit on school funds wrong

From the questions they asked last Monday during hearings in Canyon, it wasn't hard to tell which way at least some of the legislators studying alternatives to public school finance are leaning.

Some of them, and rightly so, are concerned about how the extra money they hope to put into school programs from whatever sources will be used, particularly in view of the recent so-called Rodriguez case.

No matter, it seems, where the additional funding comes from, whether from increased ad valorem taxes, an additional sales tax, or a tax on currently untaxed personal property, they are concerned with where the money will go.

They asked, for example, whether witnesses testifying at the Monday hearings would favor increased support by the state of local school system costs. Currently, the state picks up nearly three-fourths of the tab for education while local districts tax their residents with the ad valorem levy for the remainder.

The state's portion of the education tab is called the minimum foundation program, a concept around since the late 1940s. Under this concept, and the last legislature put some new wrinkles in the program last year, the state hypothetically accepts responsibility for giving each school district in the state enough money to provide a basic education for students within the district. The district picks up the tab on the extras.

Considerable debate of late has centered on whether, in fact, the state does pick up the full cost for a minimum program in any given district.

The debate has been fueled by the Rodriguez case involving two school districts, one poor, one not-so-poor, and the state's responsibility for providing an equal education. The Supreme Court, while it declined to accept educational equality as a federal function, warned states to get their educational houses in order, equalizing the funds spent in each school district to avoid inequality.

From the tenor of the testimony given at Monday's hearings the court's ruling is apparently being interpreted to mean not only that the state must provide funding or a funding formula for equalizing the educational effort of each district but that each district must restrict its local tax effort to an effort commensurate with the demands of equality.

Two legislators Monday asked witnesses repeatedly their feelings about whether, should the legislature demand in the next session that the state provide even higher percentage of the funding for public schools, the legislature should concurrently set a limit on the amount of funds which a local district can raise on its own to supplement the state program.

Most witnesses responded that in the wake of the Rodriguez case a cap would most certainly be in order to assure equality among the state's districts.

It seems likely, then, that one proposal which may emerge in the next session, if not through the House committee which met here last week then through some other source, is a higher level of funding of a minimum foundation program for Texas schools from the state with a mandated limit placed on local districts restricting the amount of local funds which can be put into the school systems above the state minimum.

It's not likely to be a popular proposal even if it truly speaks to inequalities in the funding of school districts.

Assume for a moment the state decides, in view of the Rodriguez case, to take more responsibility for funding a minimum program or, rather, mandates that those school districts with broad tax bases fork up more funds from local sources for a minimum program. In either case, the concern of the state is with a minimum program or program available to all students in all districts regardless of ability to pay.

Assume, too, that this effort results in the erasure of inequalities in the opportunities for children to achieve a minimum education, whatever the state says that minimum is.

Is it fair, then, to tell those districts — and Canyon might or might not be among them — which can afford to put into their schools over and above those required to meet the state minimum program that they cannot do so?

Does justice or the mandate for equality in providing educational opportunities demand absolute equality, which in itself implies equalizing programs at the lowest common denominator?

Or can justice and the mandate for equality be met through provision of a minimum foundation program which is really providing an acceptable education in all cases?

Does it make good sense to tell a wealthier district, which may desire to put a healthy chunk of local tax money into public schools, that they cannot do so?

Such an idea is pernicious. It doesn't make good sense.

The Supreme Court has yet to mandate that for equality's sake, whites who sit across the classroom from blacks should place a limit on their talents, their efforts and their resources to insure equity. — C.W.

Junior highs need activities

Canyon's junior high age group students need something to do.

With school out for the summer, junior highs are likely to become less a joy than a nuisance for family and community as they try to keep themselves busy during the summer months.

The recent closing of the city's only movie theatre, a once-weekly haven for junior high kids, only served to intensify the vacuum of activities available for junior highs who can't drive themselves to Amarillo's bright lights as can their high school elders.

In fact, a little diversion on the weekends or weekday evenings for the city's junior highs might serve to instill in them a smattering of desire to stick around Canyon even when they get wheels.

Unlike some other area towns, Canyon has apparently been content with providing little of substance for kids 13 to 16-years old to do.

There are, we think, dozens of options available to provide some healthy activities for the city's young people, options such as swimming parties, dances, game nights and so on. The kids aren't really that hard to please.

In the absence of any formal and organized effort, other than what's provided through several local churches, The Canyon News hereby invites any interested parents or community resident to attend a meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the News office on the square.

We will attempt to put together a group of interested citizens to serve as a nucleus for ideas and manpower to provide some workable plans for summer activities which would benefit both junior highs and community.

The News will also provide some initial financing to get the programs off the ground.

Whether or not you have a junior high age student, we invite you to come. — C.W.

Ceiling on taxes justified

If local government officials really believe their taxpayers are fed up with ever-higher taxes and if they really despise, as they claim, hiking taxes because of the burdens placed on their taxpayers, there is a positive step they can take to ensure taxes don't go any higher.

An adopted ceiling on taxes would seem in order, particularly for county and city governments, which unlike the school district are less susceptible to whim and fancy of the state.

City commissioners have, in fact, informally adopted a ceiling on taxes for the past several years, depending on natural growth to accommodate demands for increased revenue in city departments.

But county commissioners, whose budget is less a budget than a simple worksheet of what may or may not happen financially in county government during the year, have no limit in sight. The sky, in fact, is the limit and the atmosphere is already getting a little thin.

County commissioners could be well served by a tax ceiling, an amount over which they would not go.

A ceiling would give commissioners badly needed parameters in which to work. In a way it would force the commission to budget wisely and enforce budget restrictions. It would force commissioners to live within the revenue produced by natural growth. And it would give them a solid excuse when approached for new programs or services which would only raise taxes.

If county commissioners really understand the drain placed on local taxpayers by all entities, a tax ceiling should be more than an act of goodwill. It would be an act of fiscal responsibility. — C.W.

Bond issue is only the start

Last Tuesday's bond issue to finance a new elementary school doesn't change the realities of the situation facing Canyon's public schools.

The simple fact is this: The successful vote Tuesday marked only the beginning of a process to provide new schools for the district and not the end.

It is likely, although we'll have to wait until we get there to see, that the elementary school for which bonds were passed last week will be full to the brim by the time it opens its doors in September 1977.

It is also likely that within the next two years overcrowding will be a real problem at the junior high school.

Those are likely developments because Canyon and the Canyon school district are growing. Unlike most other school districts in the Panhandle, the local district is seeing the influx of new students rather than losing students.

Since Jan. 1, developers just within the City of Canyon have started construction on 87 new homes. It appears likely, according to city officials, that nearly 200 new homes will be built here during 1976. That's almost twice as many as were constructed in 1975.

New homes are going up rapidly in the north part of the district, also. In the last two weeks more than 20 foundations have been poured in just one subdivision served by the Canyon school district.

Unless something drastic occurs in the national and local economy, growth seems inevitable. That inevitability will not be mitigated by taxpayer reluctance to accommodate growth.

Canyon taxpayers will not, when the time comes for another bond issue, be able to say they were not forewarned. — C.W.

National teacher exams due in July at WTSU

The National Teacher Examination will be given at West Texas State University on July

Registrations for the examinations must reach the Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the tests, by June 24.

The examinations are designed to measure knowledge gained from professional and general education and in 22 subject-matter fields.

She's got me by the neck

BY CARROLL WILSON

I never realized what a sheltered life I had been leading back in a quiet, established Amarillo neighborhood until I married my urbane wife some 10 years ago.

Undoubtedly, one reason she decided to marry me was that she perceived the tremendous challenge available to transform me into a 20th Century man.

She set out to do so immediately.

For 10 years I have been dragged, kicking and screaming, into opportunities to learn the joys of Chinese food, Japanese food, Houston traffic jams, gardening, home remodeling, child-rearing, and clothes shopping. I have also given some thought to wife-beating.

She took me on as a personal project. Like the little old lady who finds the scroungy mutt gleaning morsels from back-alley garbage cans and sets about its proper upbringing, my wife has with evangelical zeal tackled my foibles and eccentricities not with the idea of compromise but in the spirit of conquest.

I learned long ago to yield. I am pliable. I can change. And I'm chicken.

I assume I'm better for all of it.

But I have my doubts about the latest of my wife's efforts to bring me up-to-snuff with the rest of society.

I knew it was to be a campaign directed toward me two years ago when, as we sat in a restaurant in Amarillo, my wife noticed a bright looking and brightly attired young chap across the room and remarked: "Don't you think men look just super-masculine in necklaces?"

"Hadn't really noticed," I mumbled as I pursued the menu, hoping to side-track her.

"Well," she said impatiently, "turn around and look. What do you think?"

"I think," I said gruffly, as I caught a glimpse of a tight-fitting turquoise and silver necklace around the lad's neck, "that he looks like a queer."

Her lethal stare told me I had said the wrong thing.

"Men," I said with confidence, "don't wear necklaces. Women do. Men who wear necklaces, well, there's something wrong with them.

"And I," I said hoping to reinforce my point, "wouldn't be caught dead in one."

We ate dinner in sullen silence.

But I knew eventually the subject would recur. And it has, infrequently, been brought to my attention that some movie star or television personality or other is wearing "the most masculine-looking necklace."

"Look," I pointed out one night in retaliation, "have you ever seen Walter Cronkite wear a necklace? Or how about Howard K. Smith?"

Yesterday she pranced in with two necklaces, one around her neck, a very lovely, feminine decoration, and the other a brown and black dangler with a dark stone bird on it.

"Here," she said grinning, "try this on."

I started to object.

"No," she said, "I just want you to try it on to see how it would look on you."

It's the oldest ploy in the history of marriage. The last time I did her bidding after such an offer I wound up buying leopard-skin pattern underwear.

"I don't want to try it on," I said. "I'm happy the way I am. I don't want to look like a girl."

I tried it on.

I gave in.

I'm wearing the durn thing today. I'll probably have to wear it occasionally from now on.

But I want you to understand. I didn't do it for myself. I did it for you.

If ever I am perfected, watch out world!

Death penalty for practitioners

By ANN BROWN

Parents, preachers, teachers, and all other leaders know they are expected to practice what they preach.

Even a cub scout will rebel if his leader tells him to do things one way and chooses an easier way for herself.

Granted, not everyone practices what he preaches, but think of the confusion if we all preached what we practice.

Suppose Lyndon B. Johnson and Richard M. Nixon had preached what they practiced. One thing is certain: They would never have been elected to any office.

Regardless of what anyone says, however, people usually believe what they want to believe.

Jim Vanderbilt, the convicted killer of Katina Moyer, insisted he did not get justice in the Amarillo court. He said he was promised a life sentence if he confessed his crimes.

Vanderbilt went on to say he did not approve of the death penalty, and that our society should major on rehabilitation.

Upon being asked if he thought he could be rehabilitated, he said, "A man must rehabilitate himself." Then he insisted he was already rehabilitated.

The prisoner implied that he should go free with no punishment at all. He readily admitted he did not believe he would ever be executed.

If the court had freed the man, there would certainly have been an uproar — perhaps even mob action in Amarillo. However, time passes and people forget.

Richard Speck, who slaughtered eight young nurses is coming up for parole. Who is objecting to his going free?

Vanderbilt preaches love and mercy. But suppose he were to preach what he practiced?

He kidnapped one of the most beautiful, charming girls in Amarillo, with intent to rape her. Would he dare advise other young men to grab any pretty girls they want?

He says he didn't get justice. Did he give justice to Katina Moyer?

If he believes in God as he claims, he needs to be reminded that God said, "Whatsoever a man sows, that shall he also reap."

Why do people who practice the death penalty never believe in it?

Vanderbilt contends it's unfair to deprive him of his life for the crimes he has confessed. Yet he deprived one bright, beautiful young girl of her life, though she had done him no harm, and had been a blessing to every life she touched.

The prisoner was asked if he thought he "could get to heaven without paying for his sins on earth." He said, "Yes."

His answer was more valid than the question (he didn't mention repentance, however). There is no way Vanderbilt could ever pay for what he did to that girl.

Sin is sin, however; and no one can pay for his own sins — commission or omission — that's why Jesus had to die on Calvary's cross.

The gospel Paul preached was: "Christ died for sinners," and that includes Jim Vanderbilt.

Jesus said, however, "Except you repent you shall all likewise perish," (Luke 13:5), and that takes in all of us — even if we aren't guilty of kidnapping, rape, or murder.

Every sinner who repents will be forgiven (Rom. 10:13), but even God cannot erase the consequences of our sins.

Letters to the editor

Pickens questions News comments

Dear Mr. Wilson:

I read your editorial of May 16 and agree with your remarks as to order of priorities for Universities re academics vs. athletics. I have always considered academics to be the primary reason for a University.

I do take issue with (1) "... bad blood between . . . and Athletic Director Gene Mayfield . . ." I don't identify this situation as bad blood. I put it in the category with the Dr. Caballero incident, whereby a dedicated and loyal employee of WTSU is actually publicly crucified. I think at some point somebody has to speak up in behalf of those people. (2)

"That a college president's tenure should be determined on the strength of his commitment to football . . ." I am afraid you either did not hear or read my prepared Statement (copy enclosed). To summarize, we never said that Watkins' contract hung on his commitment to football or any other sport. I have supported WTSU with considerable funds designated to the School of Agriculture, Geology Department, Nance Ranch Project, Basketball, Football and the Buffalo Club. Believe it or not, the smaller of our support has been to the athletic program.

You are critical of my remarks concerning emphasis — don't you think it unusual for the President and Board of Regents to feel that a specific sport would require that they negotiate a coach's salary directly instead of putting it exactly where it should be — a negotiation between the Athletic Director and the coach?? I do not feel that we have placed undue emphasis on sports; in fact, I think we have demonstrated that the President and the Board of Regents have taken the lead in allowing sports to become so important to their operation.

As to our statement concerning Watkins, "Due to the disclosures made today (May 10), we believe the West Texas Board would be derelict to extend Watkins' contract today without verifying these disclosures", how you could take from my statement and build the editorial which you did is beyond my comprehension.

I hope you will print this letter and let me tell my side of the story. It is pretty tough for an individual to compete against a newspaper.

Sincerely,
T. Boone Pickens, Jr.

Reader defends Zortman

Dear Carroll,

I would like to respond to the letter in last week's Canyon Sunday News that criticizes Bill Tell Zortman.

Bill doesn't need me or anyone else to defend him, but I work for him and I know him to be a compassionate human being who is always fair.

As for Bill being groomed by Jim Pratt, this is untrue. Bill worked for Jim Pratt and did an excellent job, for which he was promoted.

Since Bill became news director KVII's share of the news market has risen steadily until we now have 60% of the viewers, not only in Amarillo, but in a five state area.

The writer of that letter reminds me of the widow who marries again. Her dead husband may have been a cad, but the minute she takes a new husband, she begins to praise the dead one as if he had no faults.

Bill is not trying to be another Jim Pratt for the simple reason that he doesn't need to. He is continuing to do an excellent job, and never does anything "just for the publicity" as the anonymous writer suggests.

Which brings me to another point. The complaining writer shows a decided lack of character when he writes a scathing letter about another human being, and refuses to let his name be used. I sign mine as I do to everything I write.

Reunion planned?

Dear Sirs:

I was in your city just recently, just for a short time; however, my reason for the visit was to inquire about a school reunion that might be in the offing. I was a member of the Canyon High School senior graduation class in 1926. There were 48 in the class. This being 50 years ago, thought there may be enough of the class around that they would be having a reunion.

I did make a short visit to your present high school building and it is really very nice and modern. (I must add that all the students looked very young).

I feel sure that the 1926 class has scattered and would be very difficult to have such an affair.

Your city has grown and changed since I was a resident, but it was nice to see a few familiar faces.

Ever,

The Kitchen Sink

By SUSAN WILSON

As readers of this paper may remember, last year Hubby went in "halves" on a calf to feed out for the freezer.

During this time Hubby bought a cowboy shirt, some Levi's, and a pair of cowboy boots. We started subscribing to Cattleman's Magazine and he developed a taste for Western art. He referred to his venture as "being in the cattle business." It got to be a little much. He wanted me to join the Cowbelles, and he'd usher the kids out to the car saying "Git along, little Dogies."

One evening I discovered him sitting on the floor in front of our electric range, drinking boiled coffee, eating hardtack, and playing round-up and campfire tunes on his "gee-tar."

Hubby, you see, has a flair for over-doing.

Well, to make a long story short, he nearly lost his cowboy

Canyon's church life

Summertime mission services for tourists and travellers who are camping in the Palo Duro Canyon and available to attend outdoor worship services will be offered the opportunity beginning June 6, when the First Baptist Church sponsored summer mission begins weekly services on Sunday mornings.

J.C. Newton will serve as general director of the summer mission with Kenneth and Louise Baker in charge of the music. The outdoor services will feature various laymen from throughout the Panhandle speaking.

"Are You A Christian" will be the Sunday morning worship topic today for the First Presbyterian Church of Canyon.

Tom Chapin, associate campus minister for the Bible Chair at West Texas State University, has accepted the position as minister of education and music for the San Jacinto Church of Christ in Amarillo. He has been associated with the WT Bible Chair almost six years including several semesters as a student, then as parttime campus minister while still a student and for the past two years as fulltime campus minister.

A bake sale and rummage styled activity are being planned by the youth groups of the Happy Methodist Church for next weekend, June 4-5. The sales area will be in the church annex at Happy, adjacent the church, and various community donated items are to be sold during the two day affair.

"Adopt-a-grandparent" is the theme for a recently instigated project of the junior high school United Methodist Youth Fellowship groups — and several older citizens of Canyon have been pleasantly surprised to receive cards and well wishes from the youths.

"Life Together in the Christian Family" will be the theme for Vacation Bible School of University Church of Christ which begins Monday through June 4. Class time will be 9-11 a.m. daily.

Mid-June is the time set aside by several local congregations who will be cooperating on the Ecumenical Vacation Bible School for city students aged three through sixth grade. The Ecumenical VBS will be held June 14-18 from 8:30 until 11:30 a.m.

Churches participating will be the First Christian with Jeri Gerald of that congregation serving as overall coordinator. Other local churches participating will be St. Ann's Catholic Church, the Episcopal Church, Lutheran Church, First United Methodist Church and the First Presbyterian Church.

Check with any of the aforementioned churches to obtain further information on the guidelines for the non-denominational religious training.

First Baptist Church of Canyon will begin summertime midweek services on Wednesday, June 2, with the weekly meal set at 5:30 p.m. and midweek prayer meeting at 7 p.m.

The church has also set their annual Vacation Bible School for the week of June 14-18.

Executive meeting for the United Methodist Women will be held in the conference rooms of the church starting at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, June 1. This month the women are collecting Betty Crocker coupons and Taylor and Sons Food register tapes.

First Baptist Church of Canyon will be sponsoring a VBS Mission Trip July 5-10 and preparations for the summer project will be discussed by Karen Gilliland and Gary Beagle this evening in fellowship hall beginning at 6 p.m.

"We Begin Again" has been chosen as the theme of Soil Stewardship Week which will be observed by various city churches in cooperation with the annual project sponsored by Palo Duro Soil Conservation District. The Sunday worship of First Christian Church will be devoted to the topic with three members of the CYF, Becky Boston, Shannon Corbitt and Steve Baird, leading in the worship services.

Fellowship and Bible study will be the main thrust of FAB Week being sponsored by the First Baptist Church of Canyon May 31-June 4. The Bible Study theme will be "I'm A Good Man But . . ." and a Wonderland Park night will include miniature golf, weiner roast and swimming.

The United Campus Ministry will be sponsoring a Bible Study group set to meet from 6 until 6:45 p.m. at the Episcopal Center with the first session for university students on June 1.

Youth groups of the United Methodist Church will convene at Conner Park at 5:30 p.m. today for a cookout for both the senior and junior high groups. The evening will conclude with volleyball and games for all participants.

200 students from city named to WT honor roll

Nearly 200 Canyon students at West Texas State University have been named to the dean's list and president's honor roll for the spring term.

Students who earned a grade-point average above 3.25 on a 4-point scale were named to the dean's list and those whose grade-point average was 3.85 or better were named to the president's honor roll.

Students with asterisks beside their name were named to both lists.

Summer rec to begin

A summer recreation program will begin Tuesday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Gene Howe School park.

The program's sponsored jointly by the Canyon Community Education and the Amarillo Parks and Recreation Department and will operate Tuesdays through Saturdays from June 1 to August 9.

A park director will supervise the activities. Games of all kinds, water wiggles and equipment for basketball, volleyball, badminton, softball, horseshoes and others will be available.

There is no fee and youngsters can come for any length of time.

shirt in the beef industry.

I thought he'd learned a lesson. But, spring has sprung . . . and when Hubby suggested we plant a garden I was all for it. So we went down to our local lawn and garden center and picked out three tomato plants. I should have known when he was talking to the owner, and bought plant food, fertilizer, a garden hose, a hoe, and a rake that he was beginning to get carried away. And, sure enough, it's happened.

He's been carrying on about those three little plants like you wouldn't believe. He checks them four times a day and measures their growth. He has taken to chewing a piece of straw and watching the sky a lot, "Crops could sure use some rain," he drawls.

The other night during the thunderstorm, he threw himself bodily over the three tiny tomato plants to protect them from hail. "Could have lost my whole crop," he moaned.

He's ordered a pair of bibbed overalls and a straw hat.

He subscribed to the Farm Journal.

He asked me if I didn't have a gingham apron and bonnet I could wear.

He's carrying a red bandana in his back pocket.

He was upset when I told him I didn't think we could join the Co-op.

He bought me four dozen canning jars to "put up" the surplus from our three tiny plants.

He's been looking for a print of Grant Wood's "American Gothic" for our living room.

And the other day he came home with a splended idea, "Let's plow up the whole front yard and plant corn!"

I can't help loving him — after all, he's the salt of the earth!

Travel writers visit

A number of foreign travel writers were visiting in the local area this week and made stops at the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum and toured the Pioneer Amphitheatre of Palo Duro Canyon where the world famous outdoor drama "TEXAS" is scheduled to open June 16.

The troupe arrived here from San Diego, California by way of Albuquerque, New Mexico and included three Brazilian travel writers, four Koreans who were filming a television release, along with several Liberian travel writers.

After touring the museum, where they had a first hand look at the soon to be completed Western Indian exhibit, and a visit to the Pioneer Amphitheatre, the troupe had dinner at Six Gun City.

RULES OF THE "$izzler" CONTEST

ENTRIES:

1. Anyone can enter except the employees of the First National Bank in Canyon and their families. There is nothing to buy. You do not have to be a depositor at this bank. However, if you have a checking account at this bank 24 hours before the time the temperature reaches 100 degrees the Bank will double your prize if you win.
2. All entries must be received in the bank, giving your estimate of the day and minute the temperature will first hit 100 degrees this summer according to our Time and Temperature clock. Writing must be legible. Entry must bear sender's name and address.
3. You may enter as many times as you wish, but each estimate must be on a separate entry card.
4. Entries must be received at least 24 hours prior to the time estimated for the first 100 degrees.
5. In the event of a tie, the prize will go to the entry received the earliest.
6. The First National Bank is not responsible for entries which are lost in the mails or misplaced.

JUDGING:

1. Official source for the minute when the temperature first reaches 100 degrees in Canyon for the purpose of the $izzler will be the First National's time-temperature clock on the corner of Fourth and Fourteenth Street.
2. The clock has been wired to stop when the temperature reaches 100 degrees on the clock's thermometer. The clock will continue to flash the minute 100 degrees was attained, until the bank officials have it recalibrated.
3. Judges will be the officials of the First National Bank. Their decision shall be final.
4. The contest will close when the temperature reaches 100 degrees, as certified by the judges.
5. In event the clock is declared out of commission by the bank officials the temperature readings will be ineffective during the time the clock is undergoing repairing. The bank will not be responsible for any cause of the sign not operating properly.
6. If the $izzler temperature does not reach 100 degrees before Labor Day, the contest will end on Labor Day and the prizes will be awarded on the basis of the highest temperature reached based on the Canyon Fire Department weather records.

Registration Mon. for university

First summer term registration at West Texas State University will begin at 9 a.m. Monday at the WTSU Activities Center.

A number of special workshops designed for teachers will be available, as well as numerous general education classes.

Workshops offered the first summer term include the Office Simulation Workshop, Piano Teachers Workshop, Church Music Workshop, Choral Conductors Workshop, Choral Music Camp, Statistical Methods I and II and Conservation Education Workshop.

Others are Special Topics in Library Science, Secondary Curriculum Seminar, the Junior College Curriculum, Seminar in Social Studies Education, Human Relations Education Seminar, Oral Interpretations Workshop, Storytelling, Creative Dramatics and Speech Improvement Methods for the Elementary School.

An orientation and academic advising session will be held for beginning freshmen from 9 a.m. until noon Monday in University Complex South Room 101.

Classes begin Tuesday, and are ordinarily 90 minutes in length for five days a week, Monday through Friday.

June 4 is the last day for late registration, changes in schedules and payment of fees. Final exams are scheduled for July 5, with registration for the second summer term set for July 8.

study, in which they identified the Texas Panhandle as the best location in the U.S. for wind energy potential.

"The WT team did one of the best studies presented to the council," Sherman said.

The biggest potential for alternative energy in Texas comes from solar, wind and some limited geothermal sources, Sherman said.

The council's goal is to coordinate research efforts in these fields to prevent duplication of effort, according to Sherman.

"There is no question that West Texas State is the one that can do the best in wind energy research," Sherman said.

this year, Lehnick said.

Most of the permits issued this May are for homes being built in Hunsley Hills. Lair Construction and Mark Vaughan took out 32 residence permits for homes valued in the $21,500 to $28,000 range.

Garrett and Garco builders took out four permits for homes in the $35,000 range to be built in Westgate.

Other permits issued included additions to three residents, an addition to the Assembly of God Church, a convenience food store on 23rd Street and one field office in Westgate.

Lehnick said he expected the boom to slow down now.

"They've got enough houses started to keep them busy for the next three months," he said.

Act. . .

public water systems, will also include the private systems in communities like Sunday Canyon and Lake Tanglewood.

Under the act, a public water system is defined as any system that includes at least 15 service connections or regularly serves at least 25 persons during the year. Both Sunday Canyon and Lake Tanglewood fall within the scope of the law.

However, according to property owners, meeting the federal standard will pose no problems.

The system at Sunday Canyon is already in compliance, said Mike Standefer, developer. The water supply is checked regularly under the supervision of Texas Health Resources Region I, he said.

"If the law requires something more than what we are doing now, we might have to add something," he said. "But I guess we'll just keep operating under the supervision of the Region I office."

The water at Lake Tanglewood is untreated well water, a spokesman said. The supply is tested regularly by the Bi-city-Bi-County Health Department and there have never been any bad samples, she said.

While the law is expected to have only a small impact here, it will be costly nonetheless, Rogers said.

"Eventually," he said, "this act will cost everybody as a taxpayer."

Going somewhere? Or been? The Canyon News wants to know about it — and so do its readers.

Bicentennial echoes from past

By JACKIE WILSON

Miss Mary Elizabeth Hudspeth was one of the first professional women in Canyon. Although she was born in Arkansas, most of her life was spent in Texas. In 1910, Miss Hudspeth moved to Canyon to teach in the newly founded West Texas State Normal College. Mathematics and Language were her chosen fields.

The lady was a charmer to young and old alike; President Cousins referred to her as "Queen Mary," Professor Stafford of the Latin department commented more than once that "The Lord broke the mold when He created Miss Hudspeth," and later President Hill described her as possessing "the stately bearing and refinement of a cultured lady of the Old South."

Miss Hudspeth's home was constantly filled with influential persons of yesterday and today (her students). Mrs. Mitch Jones told of her active interest in the lives of the young adults around her. It seems that when a fellow began dating a girl regularly, Miss Hudspeth would have the fellow invite his girl over for dinner at her home. This was a time of approval or disapproval — Mrs. Jones commented Mitch took her to Miss Hudspeth's home twice in order to obtain approval! This same Miss Hudspeth was instrumental in guiding Dr. Ples Harper in the field of language. She helped in molding many other lives. In 1944, the College yearbook paid her the following honor:

"To Miss Mary E. Hudspeth, exemplar of noble character, this war-time Le Mirage is humbly dedicated.

"Miss Hudspeth's span of service to West Texas State College covers all the years from the time its doors first opened to the end of the long session of 1942-43. As dynamic, patient, understanding teacher and tireless scholar, as practicing Christian and charming hostess, as Dean of Women and helpful friend she contributed each day to the substance and flavor and richness of life on the campus and in the town . . . In the midst of the confusion of war, remembrance of Miss Hudspeth's strength and consecration and poise gives courage for the day's task and faith in the potential splendor of human life."

The "best" dress for Mary Elizabeth Hudspeth, the first professional woman of Canyon, is now on display at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum. The dress was among Miss Hudspeth's belongings when she came to Canyon in 1910.

Impressive rites are confirmed

Vases filled with daisies and gladioli decorated the sanctuary of University Church of Christ in Canyon as Miss Donna Carol Coleman and David Kevin Fite exchanged double ring marriage vows Tuesday evening, May 25.

Bob Crass, minister, officiated at the ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Dee Coleman of 705 15th Street Canyon and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Marvin Fite of 1404 Hillcrest Drive, Canyon.

Special music for the wedding was provided by the Church of Christ Bible Chair Quartet as they sang a cappella The Wedding Song, Follow Me, Annie's Song, Sunrise, Sunset and May You Go With God.

At the wedding guest registry was Miss Tara Wooten of Canyon and candles for the service were lighted by Terri and Nicky Coleman, cousins of the bride, both from Canyon.

An old fashioned wedding gown of candlelight crepe was worn by the bride. The wedding gown featured a Victorian neckline covered with sheer English lace and styled with a candlelight chiffon yoke with lace petal applique edging. The formal length bell sleeves were gathered to a button cuff with double bands of lace appliqued above the wrist. The dress was made by the bride and her mother and featured a slim A-line skirt with a deeply gored ruffle attached at mid-skirt. Appliqued lace in double bands marked the lower flounce edging with a matching band at the mid-skirt attachment. The back of the dress formed a softly flowing taper with the mid-skirt ruffle extending to form the chapel length wedding train.

A matching chiffon covered picture hat, edged with tiny chiffon ruffle edging, was worn by the bride. The crown and wide brim were accented with English lace appliques and banded with a tapered tie of chiffon.

She carried a cascade of daisies and yellow sweetheart roses highlighted with baby's breath and long satin streamers and completed the old fashioned traditional wedding by using her maternal grandmother's wedding ring as "something old," the wedding dress designed by the bride and her mother as "something new," with a lace handkerchief carried by the bride's mother at her own wedding as "something borrowed" and the wedding garter worn by her mother as "something blue."

Formal length dresses of deep turquoise colors were worn by the bridal attendants Miss Diana Davis, maid of honor, Mrs. Tom Chapin and Miss Susan Coleman, sister of the bride, all of Canyon. The dresses featured Victorian necklines edged in pale yellow lace, as were the cuffs to the puffed sleeves. Each attendant wore a full-length eyelet apron of pale yellow sprigged with tiny clusters of turquoise flowers and edged with a narrow ruffling.

Black tuxedoes with pale yellow shirts were worn by the best man, Jeff Reid of Canyon, and the groomsmen Paul Hensley of Canyon and Alan Nickson of Lorenzo.

Scott Coleman, brother of the bride, served as ringbearer and carried the rings on a pillow. Ushering were: Ben Richardson, Dale Stout, Donnie Collins and Eddie Wilson.

A reception in fellowship hall followed the wedding ceremony. Receiving guests with the newlywed couple were the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. John D. Coleman, and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Fite, parents of the bridegroom, with the bride's paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Coleman of Wellington, Texas.

Laid with a white satin cloth and overlaid with white net, the bride's table was centered with a triple candelabrum accented with white daisies, yellow sweetheart roses and baby's breath. The almond-flavored four tiered wedding cake was wreathed in garlands of daisies and made for the occasion by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Mario Coleman of Canyon, as a wedding gift to the couple. Crystal and silver appointments were used at the bride's table for serving the wedding cake and punch by Miss Elaine Raemakers and Mrs. Alan Beghtel.

At the bridegroom's table was a double layered oatmeal cake, made by the bride, was served with coffee from a silver service. The table was laid with a tailored beige satin cloth and centered with a silver candelabrum and arrangement of daisies. Attending the groom's table were his sisters, Mrs. Dale Stout and Mrs. Gail Childers of Canyon.

Assisting with the reception arrangements were houseparty members including Mrs. Bill Sternenberg, Mrs. Dan White, Mrs. Jim Christopher, Mrs. Mike Loe, Mrs. Sanul Lewis and Misses Lou Davis, and Linda Reid.

As the couple departed for their wedding trip to Oklahoma City, the bride wore a spring dress of blue and yellow print. The couple will be making their home at Weatherford, Oklahoma.

Both the bride and bridegroom are 1974 graduates of Canyon High School. The bride will be employed by Southwestern Oklahoma State University and is formerly a junior student of West Texas State University majoring in business. The bridegroom was a sophomore pre-pharmacy major at West Texas State University and will be continuing his education at Southwestern Oklahoma State University in Weatherford.

Couple marries in chapel ceremony at Fort Worth

Watson Chapel of the University Baptist Church in Ft. Worth was the setting Saturday evening, May 29, for the double ring nuptial vows uniting Miss Karen Lee Cresswell and Steven V. Russell in marriage.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V.E. Cresswell of Fort Worth and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. R.L. Russell of Canyon. Gary Cook, minister of senior adults, officiated at the marriage rites.

An arrangement of pink gladioli softened with blue carnations formed the focal point of the chapel decorations with a brass candelabrum bearing clear votive lights accenting. As the nuptial ceremony was concluded the couple knelt to face each other on a profile brass and leather kneeling bench which fronted the altar.

Miss Rhealene Stewart served as organist with the processional being Trumpet Voluntary by Purcell and the recessional music being Psalm XIX. Other selections for the service were He Lives On High, List To The Voice, Higher Ground, Joyful, Joyful We Adore Thee, Savior Like A Shepherd Lead Us, I Would Be True, All The Way My Savior Leads Me, O God Our Help in Ages Past and Jesu, Joy of Man's Desire.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride selected a flowing gown of white chiffon. Imported ribbon lace covered the bodice and traced the jewel neckline. The Juliet sleeves, full gathered skirt and chapel length wedding train were of double layers of chiffon. Lace and pearls covered the bonnet cap which held a fingertip illusion veil edged with lace. The bride carried a crescent shaped cascade bouquet of bridal pink roses, ivory stephanotis and baby's breath.

Attendants to the bride were Laura Johnston, Nancy Austin and Helen Baldwin. They wore sleeveless azure gowns of tiffany knit featuring v-neck styling with flowing skirts with a criss crossed tie in the back. Each carried an Edwardian bouquet of pink roses, pink and blue carnations and accenting baby's breath.

Calvin Yarbrough of Canyon served as best man and the groomsmen were Ronnie Russell of Ft. Campbell, Kentucky and Tom Elgan of Blairsden, California. Ushering was handled by Chris Cresswell of Fort Worth and Lynn Salmon of Quanah.

The church parlor was the setting for the reception following the nuptial vows where the bride's table was decorated with a spray of blue and pink carnations. Blue roses accented the traditional wedding cake which was served with a festive punch. The groom's table featured coffee with a chocolate almond cake and the table was complemented with a silver candelabrum.

The bride wore a belted dress of white linen accented with navy top stitching and completed with a red scarf as the couple left for their first night at the honeymoon suite of the Green Oaks Inn in Fort Worth. They left for a drive to California where they will be establishing their home at Blairsden, California in early June.

A speech and hearing major, the bride graduated in May 1976 from Stpehen F. Austin State University with a B.S. degree in education. She is a member of the SFA honorary education fraternity, Kappa Delta Pi and of the National Honor Society Alpha Chi.

The bridegroom graduated December 1974 from Stephen F. Austin State University with a B.S. degree in forestry. Earlier he had attended West Texas State University and was a graduate of Canyon High School. While at Stephen F. Austin State University, he was a member of the honorary forestry fraternity, Xi Sigma Pi, and also a member of Alpha Chi national honor society. He is currently employed with the United States Forest Service in Plumas National Forest in California.

Dallas ceremonies confirmed for former resident of city

Miss Roberta Katherine Hickman of San Antonio, Texas and Benjamin Julian Weigle of Bettendord, Iowa exchanged nuptial vows May 18 in the Temple Emanu-El at Dallas with Rabbi Jack Bempoard officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald G. Hickman of San Antonio and former residents of Canyon. She is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Hickman of Canyon. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Julian Weigle of Bettendorf, Iowa.

Following a wedding trip to New York, the couple are at home in North Carolina. The bride is a recent graduate of Texas Tech University at Lubbock and the bridegroom graduated from Southern Methodist University at Dallas.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Jo Beth Kested, served as matron of honor. The maid of honor was Miss Sherry Harr of Panhandle and bridesmaids were Miss Lauri Odom, Miss Susan Jimmerson and Miss Susan Robinson of Dallas.

Best man was David Weigle and groomsmen included John Weigle, Kirk Meeks, John Stevesnon and Scott Treasure. Assisting as ushers were Kit Miller and Mark Sadel.

The wedding reception was held at Linz Social Hall.

Social deadline on weddings, engagements, etc. is Thursday noon!!

Nuptial vows read

St. Paul The Apostle Catholic Church of Richardson, Texas was the setting for double ring marriage ceremonies on May 22 which united in marriage Miss Mary Lynne Cunningham and Russell Allan Grimes.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Cunningham of Richardson, Texas and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Russell L. Grimes of Petersburg, Texas.

The couple will make their home in Canyon where the bride is a junior sociology major at West Texas State University. She was resident assistant for Hudspeth Hall, women's dormitory, during the fall and spring semesters and was a member of the Student Activities Council.

A senior science education major with emphasis in physics, the bridegroom will graduate from West Texas State in December. He was a lab assistant during the spring and fall for the physics department and served as president of the Student Activities Council. During the summer he will work on an undergraduate research program at Lubbock.

For her wedding, the bride chose an original gown fashioned of chiffon with embroidered Venice lace in white. The wedding gown was designed with a fitted bodice and featured a deep rounded yoke that extended to form a high neckline with a banding of lace at the yoke and encircling the neckline. Multiple rows of lace traced the bodice front and encircled the arched waist. The full flowing sleeves were held by fitted cuffs edged with lace. The chiffon skirt over silk taffeta unfolded across the back forming a watteau train which extended to a chapel train, with a border of lace encircling the hemline and train. Her fingertip veil was held to a Juliette cap fashioned with matching Venice lace and the veil tiers were each trimmed by matching lace.

Matching white gladioli arrangements and greenery framed the altar. Marsha McGuire served as vocalist presenting the theme from Mahogany, The Lord's Prayer and Prayer of St. Francis.

Bridal attendants were Mrs. Calvin Yarbrough, Kathi Bylander and Marsha McGuire. They wore matching full length gowns of yellow crepe with sleeves and bodice embroidered in silk organza. Their outfits were complemented with white full brimmed hats with matching scarves of silk organza forming the band. They carried three yellow talisman roses with a single white talisman rose complemented with yellow flowing streamers.

James Wiley Harp served as best man and groomsmen were Robert Grimes and George A. Grimes. Ushering were Mark C. Cunningham, Bill Studebaker and Ray Silva, Jr.

The church cafeteria was the setting for the wedding reception following where a three tiered bridal cake, festooned with roses, was served. The bridegroom's table featured a fudge cake.

A late evening dinner of roast beef, parsley potatoes, broccoli and dessert was served for the bridal party and out-of-town guests prior to the couple's departure for Amarillo. They left the local area for a camping trip to Colorado and on return will make their home in Canyon.

Mrs. Edgil Lee Maxwell
nee Rhonda Carol Davis

Double ring nuptials unite couple in area

Miss Rhonda Carol Davis and Edgil Lee Maxwell were united in marriage during double ring ceremonies read Saturday evening, May 29, at the Bible Baptist Temple of Amarillo with Rev. Jim Hensly officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Davis of 4220 Mesa Circle and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Davis, 407 9th St., Canyon. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. James E. Maxwell of 1205 N. Lincoln.

Chosen colors of blue and white decorated the church for the occasion with large blue and white daisies highlighting arrangements of gladioli. Candelabrum accented with greenery completed the wedding decorations.

Colour My World and Wherever Thou Leadest, I Will Go were presented by the vocalist, Sandra Lake, with accompaniment and other appropriate selections at the organ by Sharron Howard.

Attending the couple were the bride's sister, Lauri Davis, and Don Maxwell, brother of the bridegroom. Ushering were Kenny Gann and Billy Burns.

For her wedding, the bride chose a full length white silk organza wedding dress featuring a fitted bodice with waist inset and v-shaped neckline. The neckline was edged with lace scallops and the full flowing sleeves were inset with a wide lace banding at the elbow and completed with a loose gathered flounce. The full skirt was edged with a matching wide gathered flounce and inset of lace in a similar design. Her bridal bouquet featured white roses and daisies. The bride's veil was shoulder length with a pearl accented headdress and was "borrowed" for the occasion from the bride's aunt, Nedra Davis.

A three tiered wedding cake was served at the reception following in fellowship hall of the church. The cake featured blue flowers and was served by Kelly Mitchell and Donna Hicks. Attending the guest book was the bride's sister, Carla Davis.

For the wedding trip to Oklahoma City, the bride changed to a beige eyelet street length dress complemented with matching shoes. The couple will establish their home at 4212 West 9th in Amarillo on return from the trip.

The bride is a student of Amarillo High School and member of Paramount Baptist Church. The bridegroom is presently employed with ASARCO and graduated from Palo Duro High School and Amarillo College.

Couple marries in chapel ceremony at Fort Worth

Watson Chapel of the University Baptist Church in Ft. Worth was the setting Saturday evening, May 29, for the double ring nuptial vows uniting Miss Karen Lee Cresswell and Steven V. Russell in marriage.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V.E. Cresswell of Fort Worth and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. R.L. Russell of Canyon. Gary Cook, minister of senior adults, officiated at the marriage rites.

An arrangement of pink gladioli softened with blue carnations formed the focal point of the chapel decorations with a brass candelabrum bearing clear votive lights accenting. As the nuptial ceremony was concluded the couple knelt to face each other on a profile brass and leather kneeling bench which fronted the altar.

Miss Rhealene Stewart served as organist with the processional being Trumpet Voluntary by Purcell and the recessional music being Psalm XIX. Other selections for the service were He Lives On High, List To The Voice, Higher Ground, Joyful, Joyful We Adore Thee, Savior Like A Shepherd Lead Us, I Would Be True, All The Way My Savior Leads Me, O God Our Help in Ages Past and Jesu, Joy of Man's Desire.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride selected a flowing gown of white chiffon. Imported ribbon lace covered the bodice and traced the jewel neckline. The Juliet sleeves, full gathered skirt and chapel length wedding train were of double layers of chiffon. Lace and pearls covered the bonnet cap which held a fingertip illusion veil edged with lace. The bride carried a crescent shaped cascade bouquet of bridal pink roses, ivory stephanotis and baby's breath.

Attendants to the bride were Laura Johnston, Nancy Austin and Helen Baldwin. They wore sleeveless azure gowns of tiffany knit featuring v-neck styling with flowing skirts with a criss crossed tie in the back. Each carried an Edwardian bouquet of pink roses, pink and blue carnations and accenting baby's breath.

Calvin Yarbrough of Canyon served as best man and the groomsmen were Ronnie Russell of Ft. Campbell, Kentucky and Tom Elgan of Blairsden, California. Ushering was handled by Chris Cresswell of Fort Worth and Lynn Salmon of Quanah.

The church parlor was the setting for the reception following the nuptial vows where the bride's table was decorated with a spray of blue and pink carnations. Blue roses accented the traditional wedding cake which was served with a festive punch. The groom's table featured coffee with a chocolate almond cake and the table was complemented with a silver candelabrum.

The bride wore a belted dress of white linen accented with navy top stitching and completed with a red scarf as the couple left for their first night at the honeymoon suite of the Green Oaks Inn in Fort Worth. They left for a drive to California where they will be establishing their home at Blairsden, California in early June.

A speech and hearing major, the bride graduated in May 1976 from Stpehen F. Austin State University with a B.S. degree in education. She is a member of the SFA honorary education fraternity, Kappa Delta Pi and of the National Honor Society Alpha Chi.

The bridegroom graduated December 1974 from Stephen F. Austin State University with a B.S. degree in forestry. Earlier he had attended West Texas State University and was a graduate of Canyon High School. While at Stephen F. Austin State University, he was a member of the honorary forestry fraternity, Xi Sigma Pi, and also a member of Alpha Chi national honor society. He is currently employed with the United States Forest Service in Plumas National Forest in California.

Dallas ceremonies confirmed for former resident of city

Miss Roberta Katherine Hickman of San Antonio, Texas and Benjamin Julian Weigle of Bettendord, Iowa exchanged nuptial vows May 18 in the Temple Emanu-El at Dallas with Rabbi Jack Bempoard officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald G. Hickman of San Antonio and former residents of Canyon. She is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Hickman of Canyon. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Julian Weigle of Bettendorf, Iowa.

Following a wedding trip to New York, the couple are at home in North Carolina. The bride is a recent graduate of Texas Tech University at Lubbock and the bridegroom graduated from Southern Methodist University at Dallas.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Jo Beth Kested, served as matron of honor. The maid of honor was Miss Sherry Harr of Panhandle and bridesmaids were Miss Lauri Odom, Miss Susan Jimmerson and Miss Susan Robinson of Dallas.

Best man was David Weigle and groomsmen included John Weigle, Kirk Meeks, John Stevesnon and Scott Treasure. Assisting as ushers were Kit Miller and Mark Sadel.

The wedding reception was held at Linz Social Hall.

Social deadline on weddings, engagements,
etc. is Thursday noon!!

Nuptial vows read

St. Paul The Apostle Catholic Church of Richardson, Texas was the setting for double ring marriage ceremonies on May 22 which united in marriage Miss Mary Lynne Cunningham and Russell Allan Grimes.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Cunningham of Richardson, Texas and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Russell L. Grimes of Petersburg, Texas.

The couple will make their home in Canyon where the bride is a junior sociology major at West Texas State University. She was resident assistant for Hudspeth Hall, women's dormitory, during the fall and spring semesters and was a member of the Student Activities Council.

A senior science education major with emphasis in physics, the bridegroom will graduate from West Texas State in December. He was a lab assistant during the spring and fall for the physics department and served as president of the Student Activities Council. During the summer he will work on an undergraduate research program at Lubbock.

For her wedding, the bride chose an original gown fashioned of chiffon with embroidered Venice lace in white. The wedding gown was designed with a fitted bodice and featured a deep rounded yoke that extended to form a high neckline with a banding of lace at the yoke and encircling the neckline. Multiple rows of lace traced the bodice front and encircled the arched waist. The full flowing sleeves were held by fitted cuffs edged with lace. The chiffon skirt over silk taffeta unfolded across the back forming a watteau train which extended to a chapel train, with a border of lace encircling the hemline and train. Her fingertip veil was held to a Juliette cap fashioned with matching Venice lace and the veil tiers were each trimmed by matching lace.

Matching white gladioli arrangements and greenery framed the altar. Marsha McGuire served as vocalist presenting the theme from Mahogany, The Lord's Prayer and Prayer of St. Francis.

Bridal attendants were Mrs. Calvin Yarbrough, Kathi Bylander and Marsha McGuire. They wore matching full length gowns of yellow crepe with sleeves and bodice embroidered in silk organza. Their outfits were complemented with white full brimmed hats with matching scarves of silk organza forming the band. They carried three yellow talisman roses with a single white talisman rose complemented with yellow flowing streamers.

James Wiley Harp served as best man and groomsmen were Robert Grimes and George A. Grimes. Ushering were Mark C. Cunningham, Bill Studebaker and Ray Silva, Jr.

The church cafeteria was the setting for the wedding reception following where a three tiered bridal cake, festooned with roses, was served. The bridegroom's table featured a fudge cake.

A late evening dinner of roast beef, parsley potatoes, broccoli and dessert was served for the bridal party and out-of-town guests prior to the couple's departure for Amarillo. They left the local area for a camping trip to Colorado and on return will make their home in Canyon.

Mrs. Edgil Lee Maxwell
nee Rhonda Carol Davis

Double ring nuptials unite couple in area

Miss Rhonda Carol Davis and Edgil Lee Maxwell were united in marriage during double ring ceremonies read Saturday evening, May 29, at the Bible Baptist Temple of Amarillo with Rev. Jim Hensly officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Davis of 4220 Mesa Circle and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Davis, 407 9th St., Canyon. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. James E. Maxwell of 1205 N. Lincoln.

Chosen colors of blue and white decorated the church for the occasion with large blue and white daisies highlighting arrangements of gladioli. Candelabrum accented with greenery completed the wedding decorations.

Colour My World and Wherever Thou Leadest, I Will Go were presented by the vocalist, Sandra Lake, with accompaniment and other appropriate selections at the organ by Sharron Howard.

Attending the couple were the bride's sister, Lauri Davis, and Don Maxwell, brother of the bridegroom. Ushering were Kenny Gann and Billy Burns.

For her wedding, the bride chose a full length white silk organza wedding dress featuring a fitted bodice with waist inset and v-shaped neckline. The neckline was edged with lace scallops and the full flowing sleeves were inset with a wide lace banding at the elbow and completed with a loose gathered flounce. The full skirt was edged with a matching wide gathered flounce and inset of lace in a similar design. Her bridal bouquet featured white roses and daisies. The bride's veil was shoulder length with a pearl accented headdress and was "borrowed" for the occasion from the bride's aunt, Nedra Davis.

A three tiered wedding cake was served at the reception following in fellowship hall of the church. The cake featured blue flowers and was served by Kelly Mitchell and Donna Hicks. Attending the guest book was the bride's sister, Carla Davis.

For the wedding trip to Oklahoma City, the bride changed to a beige eyelet street length dress complemented with matching shoes. The couple will establish their home at 4212 West 9th in Amarillo on return from the trip.

The bride is a student of Amarillo High School and member of Paramount Baptist Church. The bridegroom is presently employed with ASARCO and graduated from Palo Duro High School and Amarillo College.

Marriage rites exchanged

Mrs. Paul J. Worosello, Jr.
nee Susan Lynette Muhlinghause

First United Methodist Church in Canyon was the setting for the May 16 afternoon ceremonies of marriage which united Miss Susan Lynette Muhlinghause with Paul Joseph Worosello, Jr.

Rev. Bill Kent, pastor, officiated at the double ring nuptial vows for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee R. Muhlinghause of Garland and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Worosello, Sr. of Parker, Colorado.

The couple is making their home at 1002 8th Street, Canyon. Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of West Texas State University. She earned the bachelor of music education degree during December 1975 and was a member of Alpha Chi honor society, Tau Beta Sigma and the WTSU Symphonic Band. The bridegroom earned the bachelor of music education degree in May 1975 and for the past year has been a graduate assistant in the music department of the university slated to receive the Master of Music degree this summer. He is a member of Alpha Chi honor society, Kappa Kappa Psi and the WTSU Symphonic Band as well as being listed in Who's Who in American Universities.

Two brass pedestals filled with arrangements of yellow mums and daisies flanked the altar with the white kneeling bench in the foreground. Family pews were marked with ribbon and daisies for the occasion as traditional music was presented by the organist, Mark Reed of Canyon, with Jeff Stevens of El Paso as vocalist.

Attending the bride were her sister, Judy Muhlinghause of Garland, as the maid of honor and Marty Marsh of Hobbs, New Mexico as bridesmaid with Alisha Martin of Canyon as bridesmatron. Each attendant wore a formal yellow empire gown featuring a circular ruffle at the neckline with butterfly sleeves. The gowns were trimmed with ribbon and each attendant's hat was accented with matching ribbon. They carried nosegays of yellow roses and daisies.

Mike Martinez of Westminster, Colorado served as best man. Groomsmen were John Hunt and Jamie Martin of Canyon. Ushering were Greg Muhlinghause, brother of the bride from Garland, and Jim Worosello of Parker, Colorado, brother of the bridegroom.

For her wedding, the bride chose a formal gown of white miramist over white bridal satin featuring a chapel length wedding train. The dress, designed and made by the bride, had circular ruffles over the shoulder and at the hemline of the dress with venice lace trimming the wedding dress collar, shoulders and hemline and re-embroidered with crystal and pearl beads. Her bridal veil was attached to a headdress of matching re-embroidered venice lace and was styled with sheer layers by the bride's grandmother. A bridal nosegay of white roses, daisies and babies breath was carried by the bride. She also carried an heirloom handkerchief given to her by a great aunt and wore the traditional blue garter, which was borrowed from another aunt.

Tina Worosello of San Antonio registered wedding guests at a table decorated with yellow and white daisies which were arranged in a crystal basket given the bride by her late grandmother Muhlinghause.

The marriage was followed with a reception in the church parlor where the bride's table was covered with an ivory lace tablecloth and featured bouquets of the bride and her attendants. The three tiered wedding cake was served with a fruit punch by Miss Mona Varner of San Antonio and Patti Ferranti of Fort Stockton.

A chocolate cake, made by the bride's mother, was served with coffee from the bridegroom's table which was attended by Miss Sherry Wheless.

Out of town guests at the occasion were the bride's great aunt, Mrs. Allison McCaskill of Houston, Mr. and Mrs. Clint Muhlinghause and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lockwood and Jason of Hasse, Texas.

The wedding was preceded with a rehearsal dinner hosted by the bridegroom's parents at the Town Crier Restaurant, Amarillo.

The couple traveled throughout Yellowstone National Park for their wedding trip with the bride traveling in a yellow pantsuit contrasted with accessories.

Couple plans to reside in Illinois

Mrs. Robert Henry Fenton
nee Patricia Ann Tilger

Double ring ceremonies united Miss Patricia Ann Tilger and Robert Henry Fenton in marriage Saturday evening, May 29, at the Wedding Chapel of the First Baptist Church in Amarillo.

Dr. Winfred Moore, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Amarillo, officiated at the marriage rites. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Carolyn Wilbanks Tilger of Rt. 1, Canyon and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fenton of Belleville, Illinois.

The colorful stained glass window of the wedding chapel formed the altar background for the 7:30 p.m. ceremony. Matching side candelabrum accented the chapel and votive globes filled with nosegays of fresh flowers marked the pews.

Wedding guests were registered by Cathy Kerr of Canyon and ushered to seating by Fredrick George and Robert Bastien of San Antonio.

Traditional wedding selections were presented by organist, Tony McGowan, with David Robinson serving as vocalist on the selections And I Love You So, The Wedding Song and With These Hands.

Flower girl was Kelli Wyatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Wyatt of Amarillo, and Michael Trevino, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Trevino, Amarillo, served as ringbearer.

Bridal attendants were Mrs. Kenneth Sweatt of Groom, matron of honor, and Ginger Crump of Canyon, bridesmaid, and Mrs. Kenneth Tyler, Amarillo, bridesmatron. They wore baby blue knit scooped neckline dresses with empire waists accented by lace panels. The dresses featured short puffed sleeves and each attendant wore a blue picture hat with ribbon banding and carried a single off-white rose.

David Habermehl served as best man and groomsmen were Richard McWhorter and Carroll Brown of San Antonio.

Presented in marriage by her brother, David Michael Tilger, the bride wore a formal white peau de soie wedding gown featuring a fitted bodice with overlay of lace to the high neckline. The full length sleeves were overlain with matching lace and caught into wide lace bands with self-covered button closures. The princess styled wedding skirt was inset with matching lace and accented with seed pearls and the detachable chapel length train was appliques with matching insets of lace and seed pearls.

The bride's three tiered wedding veil was held to a Juliet styled headdress with overlay lace accents and seed pearl highlights. She carried a cascade arrangement of stephanotis, off white roses, and baby's breath and wore a sixpence in her shoe. The traditions of marriage were carried out by the bride wearing her add-a-pearl necklace, which she has had since birth, as "something old." She carried an imported Swiss lace handkerchief, a gift from her brother, and wore the wedding dress made by her mother as "something new," and had an opal ring "borrowed" from her mother.

A three tiered wedding cake was served at the parlor of the church by Mary Tilger, Carilee Adkins and Cathy Kerr following the ceremony. The wedding cake was decorated with blue and white roses and accented on the top tier with an arrangement of wedding bells.

TOPS members attend area recognition days

Spirit of '76 was the theme of the North Plains Area Recognition Days for TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) which was held recently in Amarillo.

A group of Canyon women from the TOPS club participated in the Cyco-Ceramics Fun Night and participated in a banquet ending the two day meeting. The first state King, Lester Gragg of Plainview, was crowned. He and his wife were also the first to represent a chapter as king and queen.

The local TOPS group is presently planning a "fun night" for July 9 with clubs from Amarillo, Hereford and Canyon participating. Anyone interested in membership and goals of the group may attend meetings which are held Thursday nights and Friday mornings at the First Presbyterian Church of Canyon. Weigh-in sessions begin at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday evenings and at 9 a.m. on Friday mornings. Anyone needing further information may contact Sue Rusler, 655-4290, or Sharlette Lehnick, 655-9388.

Personal shower is held

A personal shower honoring Connie Pitt, bride-elect of Gary Morris, was held last Saturday in the home of Jesse Bewley, 2407 11th Ave.

A small shrub to be planted at the couple's home was centerpiece for the table and guests were served fruit salad topped with whipped cream, strawberries in powdered sugar and lime sherbet punch.

Special guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Merle Pitt, mother of the bride-elect, and Mrs. P.L. Pitt, grandmother of the bride-elect.

Hostesses for the shower were Mrs. Naomi Bewley, Mrs. Susan Miller, Mrs. Donna Jordan, Mrs. Kathy Warner, Miss Lynn Bowers, and Miss Brenda Counseller.

Numerous Canyon women were representing the Morning TOPS club during a recent Recognition Days session held for the North Plains Area. The local group is shown preceding the closing banquet.

Marriage service read at Vega church

Miss Donna Lynn Axe and James Verlon Duggan exchanged marriage vows, Tuesday evening May 25, in the United Methodist Church in Vega.

Vows were exchanged in a double ring ceremony with the Rev. Kenneth Metzger, pastor of the United Methodist Church of Memphis, officiating.

The sanctuary was decorated with a floral arrangement in the center of a twenty-one branch candelabra with jade foliage and yellow candles.

Donna is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Axe of Vega. Verlon is the son of Mrs. Ghent Muncy of Vega and Mr. Arthur Duggan of Batson.

Soloist was Jerry Dorman of Amarillo. He was accompanied by Mrs. Ralph Slutz of Vega at the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a formal gown of white silk faced organza. The high rise bodice was overlaid with streamers of Alencon lace and had a stand up lace collar, adorned with iris crystals. The full juliet sleeves were completely bordered with Galloon lace and attached to a fitted lace cuff. The A-line skirt front was overlaid with matching lace madallions outlined in crystal sequins. The controlled front with shirred fullness in the back and sides, was completely bordered with a deep flounce at the skirt edge forming a sanctuary train which was bordered in lace. Her tiered veil was of imported illusion bordered with matching lace. The veil was attached to a bride's bandeau of lace incrusted with seed pearls.

She carried a cascade arrangement of a catalaya orchid and yellow roses on a white Bible, a gift from her grandmother, Jennings of Canyon.

Maid of honor was Miss Karen Axe, sister of the bride. Serving as bridesmaids were Mrs. John Fangman of Vega and Miss Sudie Brashears of Shamrock. Flower girl was Helen Bean of Thicket, niece of the groom. All wore identical floor length gowns of yellow and white checked gingham with white eyelet embroidered over skirts. The short sleeved gowns were styled with empire bodice and rounded necklines. They carried white wicker baskets with yellow and white flowers.

Candlelighters were Misses Terri and Sherri Axe, sisters of the bride. They were attired in gowns of green and white checked gingham styled identical to the attendants.

Serving as best man was Larry Richardson, and groomsmen were Mark Harwell and Gerald Berry, all of Vega. Ushers included David Cleavinger of Wildorado, cousin of the bride, and Gary Dorman of Vega.

Mr. and Mrs. John Jennings of Canyon and Mr. and Mrs. H.L. Axe of Vega are the bride's grandparents. The groom's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Leon Coble of Vega and Mr. and Mrs. J.H. Duggan of Tokio, Texas.

A reception was held in the Fellowship Hall. Registering and serving at the reception was Miss Kathy Wales of Dimmitt, Misses Beth Wyly, and Andra Dorman and Stacy Fisher, all of Vega. The table was covered with a yellow dotted swiss cloth. The white tiered wedding cake was topped with yellow and white flowers and crystal and silver services completed the arrangement.

The bride is a graduate of Vega High School and attended Clarendon College, and the bridegroom, a graduate of Vega High School, is employed at Baytown.

Following their honeymoon, the couple will be residing in Baytown, Texas.

Mrs. James Verlon Duggan
nee Donna Lynn Axe

Honors extended

Miss Billie Helene Hill, bride-elect of Robert Goettsch, was honored with a miscellaneous shower Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Nathan Watson, 506 9th Avenue.

Guests were greeted in the den by Miss Hill and her mother, Mrs. Billy Hill.

The bride-elect's sister, Mrs. Haley Burke, presided at the guest register.

Refreshments of cake, punch, finger sandwiches, mints, and nuts were served to about 35 from a table centered with a floral arrangement of daisies and daffodils. Co-hostesses for the occasion were the Mesdames: Nathan Watson, Harry Green, Bill Ormsby, Ralph Huntington, Viola Robins, and Mr. Worth Jennings, all of Canyon; and the Mesdames: Babe Walberg, Johnny Parker, W.T. Robinson of Happy; and Mrs. Ken Baldwin of Amarillo.

Double ring vows read

Double ring nuptial vows were exchanged between Rita Kile and Jerry Leatherman at the First Baptist Church in Perryton on Saturday evening, May 22, with Rev. Bill Webb, director of the Baptist Student Union at West Texas State University, and Jack Pearce, pastor, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Kile of Perryton and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. True V. Leatherman of Gruver.

A graduate of Perryton High School, the bride received her BS degree from West Texas State University this spring with a major in education and all level physical education. She is a member of the Canyon First Baptist Church. The bridegroom earned his BS degree in education with concentration in math from WTSU during the summer term of 1975 and will be working as music and youth director for Grand Avenue Baptist Church for the summer. Both are members of the Baptist Student Union on campus, where she held the position of women's intramural coordinator on the executive council.

Musical selections preceding the exchange of marriage vows included Savior Like A Shepherd Lead Us sung by Bill and Guyda Webb of Canyon, One Hand, One Heart sung by Suzanne Wood, The Twelfth of Never sung by Jerry Leatherman, and The Lord's Prayer sung by Sterline Lewis. Accompanying at the organ was Joy Elledge.

Matching spiral candle arrangements with a central arch candelabrum decorated the altar area with greenery and blue bow accenting. Candles were also used as aisle markers. Candlelighters were Robby Kile, nephew of the bride, and Chris Leatherman, cousin of the bridegroom.

The bride's nieces, Cindy Kile and Bendi Kile, served as flower girls and carried small baskets with blue carnations and baby's breath. Michael Leatherman, nephew of the bridegroom, was ringbearer.

Attendants to the bride were Debbie Kile, sister of the bride, as maid of honor with Rennie Cowan, another sister of the bride, as matron of honor, and Ruth Leatherman, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, as bridesmaid. The bridal attendants were gowned in blue and white floorlength dresses with empire styling and sheer ruffles at the neckline and terminating the sleeves. They each carried small carnation cascades.

The bridegroom's brother, Gary Leatherman, served as best man and groomsmen included Gary Gumfory and Lanny Chandler. They wore black tuxedoes with blue shirts trimmed in black and the bridegroom's blue tuxedo was complemented with a white shirt trimmed in black.

For her wedding, the bride selected a formal length wedding gown of angel mist peau de soie accented with re-embroidered chantilly lace over bridal taffeta. The wedding dress was designed with a Sabrina neckline, semi-empired waist with long Camelot sleeves and a belled skirt. Inserts of lace enhanced the neckline, bodice and sleeves and the skirt featured rows of lace ruffles in a waterfall fashion sweeping to a chapel length wedding train. Her bridal veil was imported illusion with inserts of chantilly lace and was held by a lace coif accented with seed pearls. The bridal veil swept to a Cathedral length. She carried a cascade bouquet of blue carnations with a lift-out corsage.

Ushering were Gene Leatherman, brother of the bridegroom, Alvin Cowan, brother-in-law of the bride, and Jerry Knapp and George Bucheneau. Registering wedding guests was Carla Gray of Odessa.

A reception for the newlywed couple was held in fellowship hall following the nuptial exchange with the bride's reception table featuring an all-white sheer cloth accented with blue ribbon highlights and silver table appointments. The triple tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bridal couple

CHRISTMAS ISN'T FAR around the corner — and two local projects are already set in motion for the summmer months to bring in proceeds for affording the city with some new lighting and decorations for the "season of joy" next December.

Presently the women's chamber is arranging for a "flea market" on June 26 with proceeds to go toweard the new holiday lighting system. There'll be bargains in store for city residents at the flea market too!

And the Chamber of Commerce will begin selling their Canyon Country coupon books with bargain items by local merchants soon. The Chamber's proceeds from the sale are to go toward the new holiday lighting system and the Canyon Senior Citizens Association (which will also be selling the coupon books) will reap their own benefits from the activity.

MR. AND MRS. W.E. Miller of Canyon have returned recently from a delightful trip downstate to visit old friends and relatives.

Enroute to Houston, they visited former Canyon librarian Mrs. Mary Burk in Dallas and her daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. James Ray and Jana Ray.

Houston was a delight, with perfect weather, and they enjoyed the bay sights and gourmet foods while visiting their son and daughter and families, Dr. David Miller and his wife Lydia and children Davie and Wendy Ruth and their daughter, Janice, her husband Ken Branum and son Todd.

Dr. Miller is the medical director for Shell Oil Company and Mr. Branum is an executive for Belt Railroad Systems, of which the Santa Fe is one of the main lines.

Returning to Canyon, the Millers stopped in Waco to visit his brother, Dr. Claire Miller and family.

CANYON PUBLIC LIBRARY will offer more open hours for the summertime months for local residents beginning Tuesday, June 1. The library will be open from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. with an hour of closed time for the lunch break from 12-1. The longer hours will be observed Monday through Saturday at least until August 31, according to the city librarian.

AN UNUSUAL RECIPE for Beef Brownies was presented this past issue of The Canyon News by Happy News columnist, Mary Neal Henry. Mrs. Henry is an active member and leader of the Texas and Happy Cowbelle organizations which are promoting the annual "beef for Father's Day" activities around the nation again this year.

Haven't decided whether we'll put "beef" in the brownies, or on the grill with barbecue sauce — but it'll be beef for Father's Day in a lot of community homes on Dad's day, June 20.

ROCKY STONE, SON of Katie and C.B. Stone of Canyon, left late last week for a tour of Eastern states with the Kwahadi Indian Dancing Troupe of the Boy Scouts of America.

Rocky is one of these scouts who spent his early years selling cards, seeking the "mystery house," and learning various camping skills. He recently received the Eagle Scouting honor, the highest given in scouting, and has previously participated in several national jamborees and other special scouting efforts.

THE FORMER HOME of the First Christian Church of Canyon at 1719-5th Avenue has been remodelled and is now the regular weekly meeting site for the Canyon Senior Citizens Association. The group of 55 plus aged citizens meets each Thursday evening at 7 p.m. to share a potluck supper and wind up the evening with fellowship and all sorts of table games such as dominoes, 88, and various card games.

Anyone (at or above the age of 55) is invited to join the group at the weekly meetings. This spring the nursing department of West Texas State University lent an added service to the Sr. Citizens meetings by providing free testing for blood pressure and other such tasks preceding the meetings.

The garden spot

By RICK WILCOX

The cornerstone of organic gardening is composting. Good compost is the most effective all-around aid the home gardener can have, whether used as a fertilizer, mulch or soil conditioner.

Making compost is something Nature does constantly. The advantage to the home gardener of starting a compost pile is that the same process can be drastically speeded up, and the content of the finished compost can be varied and controlled by the choice of ingredients.

Composting involves combining nitrogenous and carbonaceous materials with moisture and air in proper proportions to encourage the growth of micro-organisms and bacteria. These in turn break down the organic material in the pile to release the basic nutrients which were previously combined in the original growth process. Translating all that into simple rules, we arrive at the following:

1. Combine generous quantities of vegetable matter (carbonaceous materials) with organic nitrogen sources such as manure, blood meal or cotton seed meal;

2. Keep the pile damp but not wet — too much moisture forces out the air the bacteria need to survive and multiply;

3. Include enough coarse materials such as weeds, straw, wood chips or leaves to keep the pile open to the air.

It helps to have the pile confined in some way rather than heaped on the ground. A 4-5 foot ring of swine fencing or a 4-sided board or plywood box is excellent. It need not be fancy.

Better still is a pile raised off the ground on a platform ventilated to allow air flow from beneath. This can be as simple as a 6-inch deep pile of sticks. When the pile is properly made, it will quickly heat to well above 100 degrees. The ventilation from the bottom will permit air to be drawn up through the pile.

A suggested compost "recipe" using readily available materials might be as follows: (1) a bottom layer of sticks; (2) a 4-inch layer of grass clippings mixed with dry leaves (or a 1" layer of grass clippings alone — thicker layers mat like a blanket and smother the pile); (3) a half-inch layer of manure, the fresher the better, or a light sprinkling of blood meal or cotton seed meal; (4) a sprinkling of good garden soil to "inoculate" the pile with the soil-borne bacteria that do the actual decomposition; (5) a sprinkling of moisture; (6) repeat layers 2 through 5 until the pile is 4 or 5 feet high. Other usable and easily obtained materials are sawdust (thin layers only), household garbage except meat scraps and citrus rinds, weeds, hair clippings from your barber (high in nitrogen), a few shredded newspapers or rags, packing excelsior and spoiled hay. Check the pile after several days to see that it is heating properly and thereafter only moisten as necessary to keep it damp.

Compost can be used in a number of ways. Coarse compost — darkened but only slightly broken down — makes an ideal mulch, leaching materials into the soil with every rain or watering. More finished compost — crumbly and dark — is a fine general purpose fertilizer which can be piled on or dug in heavily without fear of burning the plants. Fine compost is almost powdered and works well as a potting soil or for adding to transplanting holes when you set out small plants.

Don't have enough material to build a complete pile? No problem — start with what you have and add to the pile as you accummulate things to go in it. Or try "sheet composting"; layer the materials in thin sheets over the entire garden area itself as you get them. While considerably slower, this is exactly the way composting occurs in nature as each year's vegetation dies and falls to the ground.

Whatever plan you choose, start now! Make all you can and use all you make. Learn how to compost, and you'll never have trouble growing a showcase garden. Until next time . . .

UCM team to meet next fall

An ecumenical team from the United Campus Ministry at West Texas State University has been invited to participate in the first National Consultation for Faculty Christians of the recently organized National Institute for Campus Ministries.

Team members will include Dr. Charmazel Dudt, assistant professor of English; Dr. Duane Guy, professor of history and department head; Dr. Hubert Oppe, professor of sociology and department head; Dr. James Underwood, professor of geology; and the Rev. James Haney, Episcopal chaplain.

The WTSU team will be one of only 12 to 15 teams selected from throughout the nation attending the consultation Sept. 29 through Oct. 3 at the Proctor Conference Center of the Episcopal Diocese of Southern Ohio near Columbus.

Service set Monday for Dan Higgins

Graveside services will be at 10 a.m. Monday at Amarillo's Memory Gardens for Dan A. Higgins, 86, who died Friday afternoon at La Casa Nursing Home.

Mr. Higgins was born Sept. 14, 1889, at Dexter, Tex., and had worked for 25 years in the Canyon and Amarillo area with the Texas Highway Department. He retired in 1960.

He had lived in Canyon for about a year, moving here from Amarillo. He had been a member of the Church of Christ.

Survivors include sons, Al and Charles of Amarillo, Dan of 2612 5th Ave., and Randall of Fresno, Calif.; daughters, Mrs. Mara Baldwin of 2414 12th Ave., and Sally Boswell of Amarillo; a sister, Mrs. Mae Turner of California; a brother, Ed of Gainesville, Tex.; 12 grandchildren; 35 great-grandchildren; and 17 great-great-grandchildren.

Local arrangements were by Schooler-Gordon Funeral Directors of Canyon.

and highlighted with blue rose clusters on the middle layer and featuring a lower layer of a heart with wedding rings. Serving at the table were Gina Garrison of Plainview and Mrs. Jack Kile, sister-in-law of the bride.

Winnie Rammage of Dalhart and Mrs. Bobby Kile, sister-in-law of the bride, attended the groom's table which was laid with a white tailored cloth and featured a silver coffee service. The groom's cake was decorated as an Open Bible and etched with the names of the bride and bridegroom along with the wedding cake. Rice bags were distributed by Davy Webb of Canyon and Sabrina Kile of Perryton, niece of the bride, during the reception. Russ and Dustin Savage distributed miniature wedding scrolls.

The couple took a wedding trip to the Dallas-Ft. Worth area and will be making their home at #22 Pecos Park, Canyon on return.

T-Anchor horsemen discuss "riding"

T-Anchor 4-H Club was organized at a recent meeting held at the West Texas State University Farm with Cathey Horton, 4-H leader, demonstrating riding hints and show techniques.

The program consisted of riding hints discussion and demonstration on walking, trotting and loping as well as the stopping, haltering and backward steps for horsemanship.

Sharon Shaw, presiding officer, and members Sara Northrup, Mindy Micheals, Luam Smith, Alice Newsome, Randall Whipple, Chris Trammel, Donnie Trammel, Kenneth Krulberg, David Splawn, Karen Shaw, Connie Shaw, Amy Northrup and Rusty Denison, were present.

Next regular meeting for the club will be June 16 at the WTSU Farm beginning at 7 p.m. Also upcoming for the club will be participation in the Horse Clinics at Amarillo June 14.

Scouts have campout here

The Weldon McClure's ranch near Claude was the site of a weekend campout for a Junior Girl Scout of Canyon last weekend with each girl being presented a year's pin at the conclusion of the campout.

Scouts participating were Jeannie Acker, Mary Bost, Michelle Boyce, Sarah Bush, Jamie Dirks, Kim Forehand, Jackie Garcia, Jeannette Garcia, Kristine Grillo, Jana Harris, Lisa Johns, Tracy Lewis, Donna McClure, Kelly McClure, Vonita Robinson, Tyra Webb and Margaret White.

Adult leaders accompanying the girls were Mrs. Jerry Dirks, troop leader, Mrs. Weldon McClure and Mrs. L.C. Robinson.

Bank officers off on studies

Two officers of Canyon First National Bank last week attended the Third Annual Intermediate School of Banking at Texas Tech.

Larry A. Wall, vice president of the bank, and John Childs, assistant vice president, attended the school, which is sponsored by the College of Business Administration.

Representatives from more than 72 banks from Texas and New Mexico participated in the week-long program.

Wright takes ag honors

Jack Wright, was recently named winner of the 1976 Dekalb Agricultural Accomplishment Award. The award, sponsored by Dekalb AgRearch, Inc., is presented to the outstanding senior in vocational agriculture departments around the country. He was chosen for the award on the basis of his scholarship, leadership, and supervised farming program.

Jack, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wire Wright of Canyon, attends Canyon High School, where he has been a member of the Canyon FFA Chapter and is now a candidate for the coveted Lone Star Farmer Degree. He will be awarded the degree this summer at the Texas State FFA Convention to be held in Ft. Worth.

His agriculture program consists of beef cattle feeding, wheat production and farm mechanics.

Following this week's CHS graduation, Jack plans to farm with his parents south of Canyon.

As this year's Dekalb Accomplishment Award winner, Jack's name will be inscribed along with previous winners on a special honors plaque provided by Dekalb AgRearch, Inc. Dekalb is a leading supplier of hybrid seeds, poultry and swine breeding stock and livestock marketing services.

More girls needed

More girls are needed to play Kiwanis girls' softball this summer.

Sign-ups for the program will continue at 6 p.m. Monday at the activities center on the West Texas State University campus, according to Phil Langen of the Kiwanis Club.

Langen said the girls' softball league is for girls in grades 6, 7 and 8.

There is no charge associated with the league's play.

The season for the league opens in early June and will end in late June.

City student on SPC roll

Clarence F. Marshall of 1619 6th Ave. has been named to the dean's honor roll at South Plains College in Levelland for the spring term.

Marshall was one of 229 students at the college to maintain a minimum 3.25 grade point average for the term on at least 12 semester hours.

Summer reading program begins

Certificates will be awarded those students who complete a summer reading program of 12 books through the annual Summer Reading Program beginning June 1 at Canyon City Library.

The program will end July 31 with the certificate presentation which is usually accompanied by a swimming party or other activity sponsored by the library board.

Summer readers may enroll in the program by speaking with the city librarian, Mary Huntington, and all children are eligible to participate. Each participant is responsible for keeping their book log of those books read and logs are provided by the Texas State Library system.

4-H news

Camp set

By PAUL SAMMONS

The 4-H clubs of Randall County will have their 4-H county camp June 18 and 19 at the Methodist Church camp in Ceta Canyon. Plans are being finalized for the camp now.

We are planning for a fun and enjoyable time for everyone. There will be swimming, crafts, ping pong, shuffleboard, volleyball, and a night party.

The deadline for registration is June 10. Bring your money by our office and let us get you registered.

Leaders, parents, 4-Hers and younger family members not in 4-H (must be accompanied by an adult) are eligible to go to 4-H county camp.

The tournaments and night party committees will meet together to finalize their plans for county camp at 2 p.m. June 15 at my office, room 102 of the county courthouse.

The 4-H steer feeders would like to say "thanks" to Dr. Raymond Hinders for giving the feeding programs at the steer clinic on May 22. We deeply appreciate him taking his time and efforts for helping us with our feeding problems.

We have two more additions to the string of steers in our steer feeding program. The proud owners of two Limousin cross steers are Donnie and Chris Trammell of the Randall Longhorns 4-H Club. There are now 20 steers on feed in the Randall County 4-H steer feeding program. Some of the major shows we hope to attend are the State Fair of Texas in Dallas, Fort Worth, Odessa, and Amarillo. Each 4-H steer feeder is doing an excellent job with the calves. Keep up the good work.

These defendants failed to appear for trial: William R. Purdom, Alonzo J. Gilbert, Laverne B. Reeves, Steven M. Oldfield, Albert Craig, Gregory W. Lair and Michael A. Mercer.

Electrification workshop in June for FFA

Mike Vieth and Dal Foster, Canyon High School vocational agriculture students, will attend the 16th annual farm electrification workshop sponsored by Southwestern Public Service Company. More than 100 Future Farmers of America members and vocational agriculture teachers will take part in the workshop to be held June 7, 8 and 9 at West Texas State University.

The FFA members, who come from Texas and New Mexico, will be competing for five trips to the National FFA convention at Kansas City. Thirteen hours of instruction are offered in each of three subjects, farm motors, farm wiring and electric controls. Two students from the wiring and motor courses and one from the electric controls course are selected as outstanding and receive the trips to Kansas City for their accomplishment. Each student, who finishes the course he is enrolled in, is awarded a certificate. Alternates are also selected in each course in the event the winner is unable to attend the national convention.

Storytime is changed

Storytime reading sessions for the summer months will be held at 10:30 a.m. on Thursday mornings for all pre-school age children at Canyon Public Library.

The storytime sessions are sponsored by the Canyon Friends of the Library and have been well received by youngsters of the community since first started here last spring.

All pre-schoolers are invited to participate in the weekly storytimes as a variety of readers are enlisted to conduct the series.

Miller hires safety officer

Joe Barnett, a West Texas State University graduate, has been hired as safety officer for the university, Financial Vice President Hermas Miller announced Friday.

Miller said Barnett, who is currently safety director for the City of Amarillo, will begin work on the WTSU campus June 15.

Barnett, 30, was a dormitory director at the university from 1971-1974. He is a veteran of the Marine Corps. He received his degree from WTSU in 1974.

As safety officer, Barnett will report to Miller.

Runoff vote set June 5

The runoff for two spots on the Democratic ballot will be held June 5.

John Newton and Jerry Fadler are both seeking the nomination for Railroad Commissioner and W.T. Phillips and Carl Dally are running for the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Precincts 1-7 and 23 will vote at the community center in Canyon.

Precincts 8-22 will vote at the Randall County Annex in Amarillo.

Plumlee tapped as manager of Portales

Tom Plumlee, administrative assistant here since Sept., 1974 is leaving Canyon to become the city manager of Portales, N.M.

Plumlee will begin his new position July 1, said Canyon city manager Glen Metcalf.

Plumlee was offered the post about noon Friday after being interview several weeks ago, Metcalf said. No successor to his job here has yet been considered.

Jacobs elected

Jerry Jacobs, superintendent of Canyon schools, has been elected to a post on the Texas Association of School Administrators executive committee.

Jacobs was recently elected to represent the association's District XVI which includes members from 26 Texas counties.

His term of office begins June 1.

Valedictorian for '71

Valedictorian for 1971 at Canyon High was Bill Reynolds, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Reynolds of Canyon. Reynolds' name was omitted from a recent story about the honor graduates of the past 10 years because information about that year was not available.

Readers with problems helped through special CISD program

Youngsters here with reading problems are catching up with their classmates at a rate that is almost twice as fast as the national average.

The national goal is one month's gain for one month in the program for Title I reading programs, a federally funded program to improve the reading skills of the disadvantaged.

Canyon's elementary schools are not participating in the Title I reading program, but school personnel here use the same standardized tests. This allows a comparison for Canyon students with other students.

In the school year 1974-75, students here doubled the national goal. The average monthly gain for 86 percent of the students here was two months gain for every month spent in the corrective reading program, figures presented to the school board by Mrs. Vondean McGregor, elementary curriculum director, show.

This year, the gain dropped slightly, to 1.9 months for every month spent in the corrective reading program and 93 percent of the students reached the goal.

Canyon's corrective reading program is used as a model by PESO, Panhandle Education Service Organization, and officials from other schools often come to observe.

Mrs. McGregor attributes the high rate of success to the combined work of the classroom teacher and the corrective reading teacher. Youngsters attend remedial reading for 45 minutes each day and also practice reading with their classmates with their regular teacher.

Schools that have only the corrective reading class, without the additional classroom work, are able to held a child improve by as little as .04 a month, she said.

This means the youngster falls farther and farther behind classmates the longer he stays in the program.

About ten percent of the elementary school children here have reading problems, she said. When a child is reading as much as a year behind his age level, he begins a program of corrective reading.

Reading difficulties stem from a variety of reasons, Mrs. McGregor said. A child might have been absent while a particular skill is being taught, or he could have been ill or perhaps he just wasn't ready for the skill at the time it was presented.

Tests are run to pinpoint the problem's cause and then a program is mapped out. When Mrs. McGregor became director of the program three years ago, she and the reading teachers had to devise tests to bring out the information they needed. Now, standardized tests are available.

The corrective reading program has been established here five years. Gains in the first years were slower. In 1971-72, the average gain was 1.1 month and only a third reached the goal. In 1972-73, the gain was 1.2 months and 63 percent reached the goal or better. The next year, the average gain was 1.9 months and 79 percent of the children reached the goal.

Youngsters here continue remedial reading until they have caught up with or have passed slightly their classmates.

Reading teachers this year were Sandra Coleman and Pam Jaggers at Rex Reeves and Gaylia Cochran at Gene Howe.

Essay winners are selected

Essays relating to the "United States-Past and Future" have been recently judged by the Woman's Book Club committee with the winning essay by Curt Johnson and Marvin Hill being selected as first place.

The essay and other memorabalia will be enclosed in the "time capsule" to be deposited underground at Conner Park during the bicentennial summer celebration here on July 3.

Other junior high school students recognized for fine essay entries were Susie Wright, second place; Jeanne Parker, third place; Janet Blair, fourth place; Ronnie Hoyl, fifth place; and Sally Flenniken, sixth place.

The top six essays will be printed in the Canyon News as space permits during the month.

Frosh aid due at WT

To ease beginning freshmen qualms about the first days in college, West Texas State University is offering five summer orientation sessions on June 11 and 18 and July 2, 16 and 26.

The one-day sessions, open to all students who have been tentatively admitted to WTSU, will answer questions about degree and course selection, careers, student services, registration and financial aid. A student's parents are encouraged to attend.

"We already have a third more students registering for orientation than we did last year," says Dr. Kenneth Waugh, director of the Testing, Academic and Career Counseling Center. "We have had to turn down quite a few people for the final two sessions in past years, so we hope that people who are interested this year will get their registrations in soon."

The freshmen will be able to pre-register for their fall classes, which will give them a greater course selection. They will be billed by mail later in the summer.

Students will also have the option of coming to WTSU the day before orientation to take advanced credit examinations which will allow them to earn college credit without attending classes.

School board okays 60 new tax suits

Sixty persons and businesses will be taken to court by the Canyon School District to collect back taxes as a result of action taken last week by the school board.

The board authorized the filing of suits against the district taxpayers after they were told by Supt. Jerry Jacobs the taxpayers have been sent delinquent tax statements and letters by the school tax attorney with no response.

Those who will be sued include:
